

Metabolomics Society Newsletter December 2012

Dear Members,

New Honorary Fellows Announced!!!

On behalf of the Board of Directors it is with great pleasure that I can announce the award of the Metabolomics Society's first two Honorary Fellowships.

An Honorary Fellowship is a significant lifetime award granted by the Society to exceptional members of our community. Commissioned this year, and with up to two awards annually, in 2012 we recognise the following outstanding scientists:

- Dr. Rima Kaddurah-Daouk, in recognition of her outstanding visionary efforts to found the Society in 2004 and her fantastic contributions and energy to grow a vibrant research community in metabolomics.
- Professor Jeremy Nicholson, in recognition of his pioneering and sustained contributions to the fields of toxicological and clinical metabolomics.

Congratulations to both of you!

Nominations are now open for the 2013 Honorary Fellows, please see details of the nomination procedure at <http://www.metabolomicssociety.org/awards>

Reminder of the Metabolomics Society's 2013 Conference

Our next annual conference will be held in Glasgow, 1-4 July 2013. See the list of invited speakers at:

<http://www.metabolomics2013.org/page/speakers/10>

Further details about the conference at: <http://www.metabolomics2013.org>

Abstract submission will open soon!

(note that OMICS Publishing Group is organising a conference in 2013 titled Metabolomics and Systems Biology, which is independent of our Society).

Do you want to stay informed, or share your views on metabolomics?

You can now follow the Metabolomics Society on Twitter @MetabolomicsSoc where the Board regularly tweets interesting science stories, news from the Metabolomics journal, conference announcements, new job postings, etc. Also note that both the Metabolomics journal (@Metabolomics) and the Metabolomics Society 2013 Conference (@Metabolomics13) are both active on Twitter.

Also the Metabolomics Society has a Facebook Account, where you can post news, share ideas and meet the community. Please visit us and contribute to our growing community.

Mark Viant,
University of Birmingham, UK
President@MetabolomicsSociety.org